MEET THE STAFF... HARRY

Our newest team member has already made a fantastic impression at the Craig y Don reception desk, bringing with him a friendly smile and a genuinely helpful attitude. Born and bred in Blackpool, Harry takes great pride in his hometown and enjoys sharing a bit of its charm with every guest he meets.

Harry studied Sports Journalism at UCLan and has since built a varied and interesting career. From working as a content writer to spending time as a night porter at Hampton Hotel and even several years in a museum, his diverse experience has shaped him into someone who is adaptable, approachable, and always ready to help with whatever guests may need.

A former boxer, Harry now channels his energy into weightlifting, which has become his biggest passion. Whether he's chasing a new personal best or taking on a fresh workout challenge, he's always motivated and occasionally manages to rope a friend or two into joining him. Of course, he also believes in balance. On his days off, you'll likely find him enjoying a well-earned "cheat meal" with his girlfriend, often involving loaded nachos, chocolate brownies, and maybe even a pizza (or two).

What Harry enjoys most about working at Craig y-Don is the people. The team is welcoming and supportive, making it easy to learn new skills and settle in, while the guests help create a warm, friendly atmosphere that makes the hotel feel like a real community.

When he's not at work or in the gym, Harry enjoys staying active, trying new things, and, occasionally, planning his next indulgent treat. So whether you're after a local recommendation, a fitness tip, or simply a cheerful start to your day, you'll find Harry ready to help at reception.
